“InnoHealth Australia: Innovative proposals and solutions for the challenges of the Australian and German healthcare sectors”

Entry Candidates: Researchers, postdocs from universities or research institutions, entrepreneurs

Entry Topics: eHealth and integrated care models, precision healthcare/individual health, antibiotic resistance and antimicrobial research, nutrition

Entry Language: English

Entry Deadline: 28th February 2018 (8 p.m. AEST)

Entry Address: inno-health@fraunhofer.de

Are you ready for the future of healthcare in Australia? Do you have an innovative idea for an inter- and/or multidisciplinary solution? Then this is the right time for you to apply for this Call for Ideas & Innovation along with the InnoHealth Australia initiative! You can find all initiative and programme details in the related guidelines.

In this Call, we are looking for 30 experienced Australian researchers from the healthcare sector. The potential participants should apply as single entities by filling in the following form. In addition, you might want to send us a short presentation or video (max. 50Mb) showing the motivation behind your idea, what drives you and why we should give you the vote.

Your benefits at a glance (see guidelines for details):

- Take part in a 2-day international health research InnovationPlatform in Melbourne and meet representatives of top research institutions and SMEs (small and medium-sized enterprises) from Germany
- Be part of an Australian delegation and participate in a 1-week InnovationTour through Germany, visiting research institutions and SMEs that work in the field of health research
- Strengthen your network and be part of an active German-Australian community of healthcare experts
